MAN LOST

Mr. Howarth, last week, has been missing since last weekend. "windfall" on the mountain found no trace of the man.

The RCMP were notified Tuesday morning, that Mr. Howarth, a time-keeper at Coleman Collieries had been brought in from Red Deer and secured the area until dark. Tuesday evening plans were laid for a general ground search.

Wednesday another dog was left on a picture-taking expedition at Window Mountain on Saturday or Sunday. Mr. Howarth's car was found parked on the Allison road near the Window Mountain Trail.

Sergeant Dirk of the RCMP and Alberta Forest Service helicopter was brought in from Calgary and scoured the area until dark. Tuesday evening plans were laid for a general ground search.

Thursday morning a party of 40 comprised of 22 firefighters stationed in the Crosswest Forest and 18 Junior Forest Rangers conducted a ground search under the direction of Forest Superintendent G.A. Longworth of the Crosswest Forest. The probable area was covered at 50 intervals but no traces were found. A further search was to be conducted with about 30 volunteers on Friday noon.

According to recent reports, local citizens in groups of three and four are continuing their searching areas in hopes of finding a trace so that a full scale search may be recalled.

On Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. the Pacific Western personnel along with SPCA spent two days calling, whistling and bringing Rusty to come out of hiding. The SPCA even provided a handsome male German Shepherd — Rusty just wasn't interested.

Concerned for her welfare, Pacific Western quickly made arrangements for her owner — Mr. K. Perrier to fly to Vancouver on the next flight from Tahsis. On arrival at Vancouver International, Mr. Perrier heeded off the plane onto the runway and called for his dog. Needless to say, within 30 minutes of Mr. Perrier's arrival, Rusty came bounding out to give her master a warm welcome!

$1,000 Home Purchase Grant

Premier Harry Strom today reported that the Alberta government's program to provide $1,000 assistance for eligible first owners has met with more praise than criticism and the criticism has come mainly from politicians of the opposition parties.

The Premier said, "We knew it would be received because a similar program had a good record in B.C. where it has been operating for a number of years."

This program which was announced as part of the government's election platform applies all over Alberta. Families eligible will be able to find or plan their own homes in any area of the province.

The $1,000 assistance will be administered by the Alberta Housing Corporation. At the outset the terms and conditions of the program will be modified as needed to be certain that no family that deserves the assistance will be left out because of technology. The corporation also makes grants available in areas of the province not eligible for CMHC.

"I am pleased," the Premier said, "that we are able to assist Alberta families in this way."

The Premier also indicated that he expects the entire province to benefit. "We believe that home ownership gives the family an added stake in his local community. It will pay dividends in the form of safer communities and happier families. The home owners will also become property tax payers. The need for public housing will be diminished. The grant will assist many families who might not have been able to put together the needed down-payment."

The Premier emphasized that the home buyer will be able to choose between a new home, an older home, or a mobile trailer. The home-buyer thus retains his freedom of choice as to the price, location, quality and design of the home.

The program recognized that many Canadians change jobs frequently. Families will be free to move or sell. They will not be tied to any particular location.

The price of houses will not rise. Rents may even fall. The Premier said: "The new materials and know how are available to build the extra houses without a rise in prices. Competition does operate, particularly in building." An increase of construction is expected.

Builders, particularly small builders, stand to gain from the anticipated INCREASED VOLUME of house construction because many builders who cannot take on an apartment can build several houses instead. The program is also expected to slow the rise of rents in apartments and other rental accommodation.

The favorable reaction to the program is particularly gratifying," the Premier concluded. "Insofar as all other political parties have been critical of the government's proposal."

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

Rusty — a German Shepherd from Tahsis, B.C., just didn't like her first class seat on Pacific Western's flight to Vancouver flight. During the flight she managed to wriggle free of her cage and, on arrival at the Vancouver International Airport, had any other passenger, she just hopped off the plane. Instead of heading for the passenger terminal, however, she scouted straight for the wild open field.

Pacific Western personnel along with the SPCA spent two days calling, whistling and bringing Rusty to come out of hiding. The SPCA even provided a handsome male German Shepherd — Rusty just wasn't interested.

Concerned for her welfare, Pacific Western quickly made arrangements for her owner — Mr. K. Perrier to fly to Vancouver on the next flight from Tahsis. On arrival at Vancouver International, Mr. Perrier heeded off the plane onto the runway and called for his dog. Needless to say, within 30 minutes of Mr. Perrier's arrival, Rusty came bounding out to give her master a warm welcome!

Sales Up 49.9 Per Cent; Storage Capacity Enlarged

The development and launching must be considered an investment in the future.

Despite increased expenditures, expansion and a substantial increase in earnings for 1971, the company is indicative of the determination of British Columbia's brewing industry to expand its production capacity.

In his report, President H. W. Blakley says the ban on advertising, a particular hardship on local B.C. companies with no access to advertising carryover from outside the province.

As a totally independent British Columbia brewer, we are confident that we can provide to British Columbia's brewing and sourous service and enjoy the growth of his business despite the advertising and promotional restrictions our government may see fit to impose," he says.

"As a small company determined to grow against formidable competition, we have had to increase our capital expenditures on brewing equipment and warehousing facilities to support our expansion," he said.

Carlsberg is scheduled to start immediately with completion of the project in the early part of 1972.

Terms of reference, location and purchase of property were approved at a special Council meeting held on Thursday, August 15th.

Total value of the project is in excess of one million dollars.

New Vice-Principal For High School

Mr. L. J. (Roy) Wilson is appointed first vice-principal of the Crosswest Pass Consolidated High School.

Mr. Wilson was very active in the work of Bethel Lutheran Church and Captain of the Girl Guide Association.

Mr. Wilson has five children and is looking forward to living in the "Pass" very much.

Mr. Wilson will be joining the family here this week after spending the last six weeks lecturing at the Summer School session at the University of Alberta in Edmonton.

They have five children and look forward to living in the "Pass" very much.

We have no knowledge of his work or normal circumstances which would certainly disqualify him from the building of a swimming pool on school grounds.

In fact, we are an excellent candidate for a swimming pool.

However, this is not the only factor for local decision and there may be factors in this case which might make such an arrangement impractical or unsafe.

I believe your school will revalue this matter carefully and determine who has made a decision to locate the pool elsewhere and why if my department can be of any assistance to you please let me know.

Yours sincerely,

R. C. Clark.

THE RAINBOWS END

She sat there quietly and absorbed,

Her youthful beauty raped — by ravages

Of time and drugs.

The sea, far below was endlessly churning and

Wearing away the stark grey rocks over which

It climbed — Higher and higher!

And "She" too

Rose higher and higher,

Until she was lost in some unknown world.

The look on her rapturous face was telling the Whole world that things were beautiful.

She turned as if to listen

As indeed she was — intently

To such soul-searching music that seemed to Tear her heart into shreds.

The feeling went deep!

And treading with winged feet down

the wide, soft

Miraculous rainbow, which was stretching out

Beneath her feet; Then — there —

At the far distant end of the rainbow, was a

Shining, golden orb of light

Ethereal, beautiful and more scintillating than

Any many faceted diamond.

Somewhere, deep inside her, a new emotion

Began to grow, and she stood up, and ran

Towards the glorious golden sphere.

The new emotion, struggling desperatly for

Birth at her fingertips, was now approaching

That exhilarating moment — and —

As it burst into being as her acting fingers

Reached out and touched the exquisite thing

Of beauty —

She was lost, as she felt herself carried

Into the vortex — whirling, whirling

Then —

Falling — down, down — to crash onto the stark

Grey rocks a hundred feet below;

Rainbows end — No pot of gold,

Editorially SPEAKING

Put Up Or Shut Up

Every time a person turns to the sports pages of a daily newspaper he reads of some gripe at the Pan American Games by participating athletes.

In a sports magazine it was indicated at the recent Pan-Am Games, Canadian athletes won a "gold medal" in this event. The sports pages would indicate this alleged statement is somewhat true.

We cannot understand why the officials who make arrangements for the games cannot foresee problems in accommodation, possible rivalries emanating from political fanaticism and taken out on the athletes, and last of all, charges of "rigged" competitions.

The Olympic and Pan-Am Games are publicized as contests of skill, good sportsmanship and the hope it will foster better understanding in this day and age between nations. Last of all, it should breed sportsmanship and not "sour grapes".

If those persons representing Canada at the Pan-Am Games cannot measure up to the code and standards of what the Games signify, then they should be left at home. This continual growling at two Pan-Am competitions by Canadian athletes does nothing for the image of a country of which we are proud, and certainly gives athletes from other nations a poor evaluation of Canadians.

History Repeating Itself

It happened in Spain in 1933.

It happened in China in 1945.

It happened in Pakistan in 1971.

And now it is happening in Ireland.

Civil war is the most ghastly and inhuman tragedy written in the pages of history books.

In news last week the Irish (IRA) were planning suicide squads of Catholic children to harass British troops, Protestants and police with fire bombs. It is possibly the most diabolical scheme ever contrived by man.

In spite of peaceful overtures to both sides by the North Ireland government, the tragedies as a result of Catholic and Protestant clashes, and the presence of British troops, has the country in a turmoil. Further, the Prime Minister of South Ireland has done little to help matters with his statement "The government of North Ireland should resign and the two Irelands unionized". This is, indeed, ammunition for the IRA, who have fought from undercover for years for this to happen!

But what of the two most powerful church organizations in the world? In examining all reports, we cannot find any public statements by the Archbishop of Canterbury or the Pope in Rome, who are in a key position to quell the civil strife. Nor can we find any hope in two powerful Irish leaders, the Rev. Ian Paisley of Protestant faith and the Irish M.P., Bernadette Devlin, of Catholic faith, who seem to take delight in igniting vocal sparks to keep the country in turmoil.

Finally, Prime Minister Heath will not negotiate until British troops bring the entire civil strife under control. The IRA have different ideas.

We wonder what the future of this old world has in store for the younger generation. If the highest powers in the world cannot bring pressure to bear in saving human lives from political greed and power, ideologies and religious supremacies, then we as democratic living people are losing a vital hold on our way of life, while communistic gains will eventually lead us to survive under a servile dictatorial rule.

Ahead Of The Law

When Albert Richard Upton pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing hashish for the purposes of trafficking, he was confessing to a crime that could have earned him a maximum penalty of life in prison. Instead, he received one day in jail, three years on probation and an order to stay away from drug users.

The reason Judge Donald Conture gave for imposing so lenient a sentence was that his hands were tied by an earlier decision. That involved the sentencing by Judge Robert Dineen of Alexander Atkinson to two years probation after he had pleaded guilty to possession of hashish — a crime that carries a maximum penalty of seven years.

Since Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Upton were arrested for the same crime last November and since the Ontario Supreme Court has ruled that when more than one person is guilty of a crime, each should receive the same penalty, Judge Conture felt he had no option.

Judge Conture's decision, whether or not it was correct, focuses on the dichotomy between the face of the law and the manner in which the courts apply the law.

Possession of hashish for the purpose of trafficking carries a life sentence, yet Mr. Upton receives one day in jail and three years probation. Simple possession of hashish carries seven years sentence, yet Mr. Atkinson receives two years probation.

Are the penalties set down by the law out of tune with the way society views the two offences? Or are the courts out of tune with the intent of the public policy makers who framed the law?

With decisions such as those of Judge Conture and Judge Dineen, do we really need to await the report of the LeDain Commission on the Non-medical Use of Drugs before we decide whether or not our drug laws are serving the needs of our society?

EDUCATION — Continued

For Last Week

With the exception of the professions (medical, legal, economists and university faculties) the non-university graduate, providing he can achieve and produce, is on a par if not selected before university graduation, for many executive positions.

Top men in Volkswagen, Commerbank, IBM and chemical plants, have an average age of 46 (in 1971) and have risen to their positions because they had a record of achievement, know-how and could produce results and profits for their companies.

They were not university graduates.

We have mentioned previously the main theme of the West German government is to have "a maximum production and minimum unemployment". Thus, there is no educational strata in Germany and everyone gives the best to achieve and better himself either on the production line or in executive positions.

Those persons who watched a CBC-TV documentary a week ago, "The Mueller Memorandum", taken on site in West Berlin, will have noticed the modern school buildings, the dress of the students and the discipline which accompanies the school system.

Under no conditions are teaching facilities allowed to disseminate in any way political leanings, philosophies or beliefs to students during regular school sessions. Teachers are placed on the merit system of achievement and educational success — their salaries depend on results.

A tour of one of the schools shows money is not spared in facilities or equipment school. Except in rural areas buses are not seen. Students ride bicycles to school, take the electric street cars and walk, usually in groups of four or six.

German schools of all grades believe in tours of industry, cultural and historical centres and business areas.

Top executives make time and provide guides and moving pictures about their respective businesses. Each student must prepare a paper of each visit and in some cases industry and business prizes for the best effort.

We have stated before the cultural centres of Germany play a large part in the life and education of the German youth. The beautifully and modernly constructed cultural centre at Wolfsberg, home of Volkswagen, is three floors in height, and contains an auditorium, discotheque for students with dancing and a pop bar, library, art and drama facilities; sculpturing, music, library and an adult education centre. It is fully equipped with maximum facilities.

A "must" for every student is a visit to a city hall. These buildings are the latest in architecture and many designed by foreign architects at the invitation of the German government.

I noted one high school class on tour and followed. The guide first showed the students the rows of glass cases where over 125 marriage bands were exhibited. From this point a model of the town was examined. Each time a new building or industry was under construction, a new road or tram line was installed, these were added to the model so that any person could understand the size and the location of any building from an accompanying index. The beautiful told the writer every German takes education seriously. The new philosophy of achievement and production puts everyone on the same level of competition in the career of their choosing, but to do this a high school education is a necessity.

Germany has its share of dropouts. These drop-outs are snappish by industry and technically trained. Many of them become foremen or superintendents in industry. There are no unemployed in Germany and welfare is minimal.

As of June, 1971, the German educational system were processing applications from American school teachers to staffs. These applicants need a basic working knowledge of the German language and their education degrees acceptable.

Salaries for these newcomers, on average, range according to their records, from $500 to $700 monthly for a full 10 month stint under a five year contract. The German government, if the applicant is acceptable, has transportation for their family paid.

In my opinion the German educational system in comparison with education in Canada, in some respects, is similar, but the European philosophy is more serious and rigid with the emphasis on achievement and the ability to produce for the nation and to make a living.

Bill Smiley

Just a collection of notes this less if she had painted everything week. Don't try to find any coherence in them.

I noticed in one of my favorite weeks that an old friend of mine had been arrested for being drunk. When he turned up in court the following Tuesday, he was so drunk he had to be taken away for another week.

This takes some ingenuity. But I'm not surprised. Same chap was years ago, when his house was burning, threw his six children out the upstairs window into the snow. Saved them all.

Why don't people ever listen to me? At least 10 years ago, I said firmly that Red China should be recognized, admitted to the U.N., and that silly old dictator, Chiang Kai Shek, turned into the Indian Ocean or somewhere. The column was received with real anger in some places. Now, everybody and his brother is buttering up the real Chinese and pouring cold water on the Chinese on Formosa. Oh well, even my wife won't listen to me, so why should the others?

And speaking of that woman who has made my life a roller-coaster of ups and downs, she pulled another one recently. I'd been muttering about one recent, I'd been subjected to endless hours of discussion about colors. It's been worse than those unspeakably boring sessions we've had over the years on decorating. Do I like the mushroom with the lime green? Do I not think that the teal in the drapes will clash with the off-white in the rug? That sort of thing.

No time could I have cared a man's age.

At no time could I have cared a man's age.

HOROSCOPE

THIS IS YOUR LIFE

By TRENT VARRO

ARIES — March 21 to April 20

What may appear to be a major set-back in your daily life will turn out to be a "blessing in disguise". You may not see this at first, but realization will come a little later on.

TAURUS — April 21 to May 20

Your health needs attention now. A wise move is to have a medical check up, and get plenty of rest. Take a trip to your favorite Health Food Store.

GEMINI — May 21 to June 20

This is not a particularly good time for Gemini individuals to make any "major changes" either in business or domestic life. The urge to do so may be strong, but you would be wiser to hide your time.

CANCER — June 21 to July 20

A good time to spread good will and cheer Cancer. Get the most out of each working hour. Job advancement and raise in pay are in the cards for you.

LEO — July 21 to August 20

This period definitely marks the start of new projects and opportunities for practically everyone born in the sign of Leo. Your thinking is clear and should enable you to see far ahead in business transactions.

VIRGO — August 21 to Sept. 21

The general chart for Virgo is GOOD! An interesting sidelight in astrology, is the fact that any child born this year in Virgo will become "world-renowned" in some form or other.

LIBRA — Sept. 22 to October 22

The position of Mars in the chart for Libra, marks a change in all matters relating to prestige, credit and public relations. Luck is with you, if you let it flow in its own channels and don't try to force the issue.

SCORPIO — Oct. 23 to Nov. 21

While "Lady Luck" is still favoring Scorpio, there's a definite warning that a storm is blowing up in your horoscope. You would be very wise to take a "back seat" in ALL matters.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22 to Dec. 20

A highly romantic and pleasant time is indicated for Sagittarius. Worries and tension should clear away almost overnight. You are now entering a most peaceful time astrologically.

CAPRICORN — Dec. 21 to Jan. 19

This next week should mark a period of clearing off tension especially around your domestic life. New ventures should be watched cautiously. Take a good second look at investment possibilities.

AQUARIUS — Jan. 20 to Feb. 18

Be careful in domestic relationships at this time. You may be tempted to "upset the apple cart" which would be most unwise. Seek your own counsel, and remain in the background.

PISCES — Feb. 19 to March 20

Things haven't changed much since last week in the chart for Pisces. There's still a possibility that you'll gain in some sort of property transaction.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Alberta Farmers To Be Reimbursed

Premier Strom announced that the Government of Alberta will reimburse farmers one-half of the cost of chemicals lannate and dylohexyl to combat the Bertha armworm in the best way possible. In addition, the provincial government will give a grant to county and municipal governments to pay part of the costs of distributing the chemicals to farmers and administering the grant.

The Government of Alberta has also requested the federal government to pay part of the costs of chemicals used. To date the federal government has not replied. The Premier indicated he would follow up this request on behalf of Alberta farmers.

The Alberta government is providing financial assistance to farmers whose rapeseed crops have been hit by heat webworms and the Bertha armworm because of the many high costs of lannate and D.D.T. D.D.T. would have cost about 50 cents per acre whereas lannate has cost $1.80 per acre. The government's decision to encourage rapeseed production and the low cash position of many farmers are other factors considered by the government in reaching their decision.

To help prevent a recurrence of heavy losses by insect pests in the future, the Alberta government intends to take the following steps:

1. Review procedures employed to combat this year's infestation and outlined a proposed course of action in the event of future infestation.
2. Secure provision for automatic clearance for spray aircraft from the United States in the event of an emergency.
3. Keep up-to-date inventory of chemicals available and a list of aircraft available for spraying.
4. Recommend a schedule of rates for aerial application of chemicals.
5. Expand research into chemical and other control methods for agricultural pests.

Summer Camp

The Intermediate Girls Camp was held from August 1st to 8th at Lynn Creek. Girls from 12 to 14 years of age attended. There were 20 campers from Fort Macleod, Pincher Creek and Coleman. There were four supervisors Donna Campbell, Fort Macleod, Terri Wojtowicz, Debbie Waggoner, and Betty Lou Coyle all from Lethbridge. The girls participated in daily activities ranging from the obstacle course to lectures, swimming and campfire. Letters were given to Mr. Bernie Arnold and Mr. Dennis Lamminie on Fish and Wildlife.

Mr. Arnold said if they are far from home successfully, they need moral guidance, principles by which to live," he declared, "and they need to begin learning these even in their tender years."

One hundred thirty-seven new ministers symbolized their dedication by water immersion Friday. "Baptism" said Mr. Jones, "is the most important event in one's life and directly affects one's Christian congregation."

He added "Saturday afternoon's fast moving sessions demonstrated practical applications to all Christians to avoid being sidetracked by materialism, personalities, discouragement and fads." Worthy suggestions were offered Sunday morning by means of simple talks and dramatized presentations with a view to education all within the organization to continue in harmony with Jesus' command to "Truly love one another".

Highlighting the "Divine Name" Convention was the public discussion by Mr. Kenneth Little of Toronto, "When All Nations Collide Head On With God". He told a capacity audience of 11,227 "Our human creatures are tied down to this earth, so are moving with the earth. This terrestrial ball beneath our feet has a glorious future with it. But what about the present generation of human society now living on earth? Is it moving in the direction of its own interests? Sooner or later — and that may be sooner — will many people think — mankind will have to enter into an accounting with God."

He concluded the five-day program by urging all to continue working hard for the reward of eternal life.

The concluding day of the camp was presented with a certificate from the Camp Director for achieving the most points on the obstacle course of all the girls attending Lynn Creek in 1971. Activities of the week included swimming, hiking, lectures, over-night camps, kangaroo court and barn dance.

The cooks for the week were Mrs. A. Skrzynski and Mrs. D. Filiale of Coleman.

This was the last camp of the 1971 summer season and the girls helped to clean up.

Ask Japanese To Postpone Agriculture Quotas

Agriculture Minister H. A. Ruste, in a wire to federal ministers, Pepin and Olson, has asked the federal government to start immediate negotiations to encourage the Japanese to postpone the application of new quotas and increased import duties on pork. Mr. Ruste also requested Canadian intervention through GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) to work toward a permanent to long term policies.

The Alberta department of agriculture has learned that the Japanese will establish quota restrictions and substantially increased duty levels on pork after September 30, 1971.

Canadian meat packers are somewhat reluctant to make commitments to fill orders before September 30 because they are unsure about their ability to make dead-line because of the dock strike in the northwestern U.S. and because of the long term shortage of port facilities in Vancouver.

Mr. Ruste noted that the Alberta Red Meat Export Council is making progress in shipping for the specialized meat requirements of the Japanese. The Red Meat Export Council established by the Alberta meat packers and the livestock industry and is chaired by Alberta's marketing commissioner, Harry Hargrave.

Mr. Ruste says he doesn't want trade restrictions and the seemingly permanent congestion of the port of Vancouver to jeopardize this developing market for Alberta livestock products. Wish the present pork surplus in Alberta, it is extremely important that as much pork as possible be moved before new trade restrictions take effect.
